

WebGRE

Contributed by Liang Chen

WebGRE is a very popular GRE vocabulary book, which contain 8400+ words with detailed Chinese explanations and Webster Collegiate explanations.

+The Beginning

This book is made based on the "I Don't Like Exams" (œ" Ö) wiki. All the 8400+ GRE vocabulary's Chinese explanation have been added to wiki at 2006-06-18. All the explanations were added by my first version Robot (a computer program I wrote) automatically. During the next 72 hours, my Robot2 got the Webster explanations and sent them to wiki. Just on that day, the page views of that wiki hit the record, more than 100 visitors viewed 750+ pages.

+First Off-line Version

On 2006-06-24, the first off-line version of WebGRE was published into public internet. Its format is PDB (isilo, a very popular E-book software on multi-OSs), and the total 8400 pages were successfully compressed into one 4.5MB file. On the its first day, more than one thousand copies were downloaded.

+First PDF Version

The WebGRE met its first heyday when the PDF version was published. On 26-Aug-2006, after more than 10 hours' conversion, I published the first PDF version of WebGRE simultaneously on wobuxihuan.org, GTER BBS, and TaiSha BBS (all very famous study aboard sites in China). Although the PDF version was much bigger than PDB(more than 35MB), thousands of copies were downloaded that day.

+The Huge User

Since the first PDB version of WebGRE published, the two version of WebGRE accepted more than 100,000 download request. Than means more than 100,000 copies have been downloaded (Data according server's analysis by analog 6.0).
